

negotiating for pocket money

- 1- Highlight the parents' arguments and the teenager's argument with different colours.
- 2- Match the pairs.

You should trust me. I'm old enough to know the price of the things I buy.

If I improved my school results, would you reward me?

I would like to have pocket money to buy my own clothes.

If you're ready to stop playing video games, you can sell them... I won't have to give you anything.

If you gave me pocket money, I could buy nice presents for your birthday...

I don't show my love with money, but I show it with my heart.

Do you remember that the dog you're talking about is YOUR dog?

If you gave me pocket money, I wouldn't eat sweets and chocolate any more. In addition, I could wash the car. you could save the car wash.

If you had pocket money, other pupils might steal your money or hurt you to get it.

I would tell you if someone wanted to take my money.

If I stopped playing with my video games, would you give me pocket money?

I like birthday presents for their emotional value, not for their price!

I already pay for your clothes. You don't need to buy them.

If I gave you pocket money to look after your little sister, would you be ready to pay for the food I buy for you, and to pay a rent for your bedroom?

If I lay the table and if I tidy the living room, will you pay for it?

My brother had pocket money when he was my age. It's so unfair!

Your brother had pocket money because he was serious and he always had good marks at school.

If I had pocket money, I could save it to buy a scooter.

I want to be autonomous.

Do you mean you have bad marks because you don't work enough?

If I looked after my little sister, would you give me some money for it? You wouldn't need to pay for a babysitter.

I could feed, wash and walk the dog. Then you could save time and... Give me a little money!

Giving you money doesn't make you free or autonomous.

I don't have enough money to pay for anything. Would you be ready to make sacrifices in exchange?

If you wanted to have a scooter, I hope you would talk to us about it before buying it!

We all have to share the chores in a family.

YOU should trust me. I know what is good for you!

If you love me, give me some pocket money!